5: Slow Road From Myanmar. Hser Naymoo lived for 23 of her 36 years in a refugee camp in Thailand. When her home village was swept away in floods she and her family fled to the south east of Myanmar and were taken in by Karen people-a rebellious group targeted by the army. After seven years of barely keeping ahead of the army as well as fending off disease and starvation the family fled again eventually reaching a refugee camp in Thailand. It was a further 14 years before Hser Naymoo, now a wife and mother of three was offered resettlement in a country they had never heard of - New Zealand (F, RNZ)
