9:06 The Wednesday Drama: 'The Great Charter' by Matthew Solon (BBC/Goldhawk)

To mark the 800th anniversary of Magna Carta, this innovative drama charts the fight for rights and freedoms in the 21st Century's supra-state: the Internet, re-imagining the conflict which gave birth to the original Magna Carta in a fictional future, to explore the current debate around digital rights. In 2025 the most powerful men and women in the world gather for a summit at Runnymede. Their purpose, to discuss a possible fusion of the G20 with the i5 - the world's largest internet companies controlling the planet's data and digital access. But a communications system failure signals the start of an escalating cyber-attack that will sow panic and disorder across the globe. This is zero-day vulnerability. (BBC/Goldhawk)

11:06 Club McKenzie: Your 1920s Jazz Speakeasy

My Kind of Town Chicago was a muddy, windy town in the mid-1800s, but in 1893 (World's Fair) it had come of age. By 1920, if you couldn't find the jazz you liked in Chicago it probably didn't exist (3 of 13, PRX)
