She talks to three residents in Newtown about their experiences, and to MP Annette King, Andrew Lockhart from Immigration NZ and academic Gradon Diprose about why work is so important to our lives

6:00 Breakfast with Stuart Keith

An early miscellany of music, stories and random thoughts

7:35 Worldwatch

The stories behind the international headlines

8:10 Labour Day Monday with Colin Peacock

Colin Peacock talks to some people happy in their work - and asks what will we do when robots are doing it all for us? He picks out some long reads from the media (for those like him too busy or lazy to read whole books) and chats with an Irish rugby commentator with an alter-ego specifically for winding up the Welsh. A Kiwi tastemaker in Australia picks out some new music and a British music fan tells him about digging up lost songs

12:00 Midday Report

A roundup of today's news and sport

12:12 Matinee Idle

Phil O'Brien and Simon Morris present an afternoon of alleged music and dubious entertainment

5:00 The 5 O'Clock Report

A roundup of today's news and sport

5:12 An Interview with Edward Snowden

After three months Peter Taylor managed to secure an interview with Edward Snowden, the US national security whistle blower. He was eventually told to send an SMS with the number of his Moscow hotel room and wait for a knock on the door. The knock, to his relief, came on time. Snowden was offered asylum in Russia two years ago. He says he has been in negotiation with the American authorities and is prepared to go to jail, but expresses no regret for revealing to journalists details of extensive internet and phone surveillance by American intelligence and their British counterparts. He denies that he is a traitor and asks who has caused more damage - himself or those conducting what he says were unlawful programs. The US Justice Department has filed criminal charges against Snowden, accusing him of espionage and theft of government property.

5:45 Mrs Bennett and the Bears, by Vincent O'Sullivan, read by Peter Hambleton

From the short story collection 'The Families' (RNZ)

6:06 Smart Talk at the Auckland Museum: The Treaty of Waitangi

A panel discussion from the Auckland Museum chaired by the famous comedian Te Radar features the social entrepreneur Kiritapu Allan, Professor Paul Spoonley from Massey University, the fibre artist Suzanne Tamaki, and Leilani Tamu, a poet, social commentator and Pacific historian. Together they are exploring fresh perspectives on the Treaty of Waitangi

7:06 Busting Black Gold Smugglers

Imagine if your day job involved staking-out rugged coastland waiting to bust "black-gold" paua-poaching rings. Lynda Chanwai-Earle brings us a feature documentary about "black gold" smuggling when she joins Fisheries Officers in a covert operation to bust paua poachers around the wild coastline of Wellington.

7:30 Best of Upbeat

Selected Eva Radich exchanges with personalities from the world of music and the arts (RNZ)

8:06 The Shape of the Media

In an era when traditional media is changing rapidly, what's the future for quality journalism? What alternatives can online media offer audiences? How is it paid for? What's the effect of social media and celebrity culture? What are the implications for New Zealanders who can now get access to instant information wherever they are? Jim Mora hosts a discussion about the future of journalism with a panel including special guest Professor Graeme Turner.

9:06 Windows on the World

10:30 What's the Word: Alternative Comics

In recent decades comics, artists and writers have stretched the boundaries of what we typically thought of as 'Comics'. Familiar scripts about super-heroes were joined on bookshelves by full-length autobiographical works that came to be called graphic novels. Often rejected by the mainstream comics industry, comics creators wanting to do new things started their own companies or went underground and by the 1990's the alternatives comics industry was in full swing and in the digital age they have flourished (RNZ)

11:06 Beale Street Caravan

David Knowles introduces the Memphis-based radio show with an international reputation for its location recordings of blues musicians live in concert (F, BSC)
