Programme 3 - A better life?

At the heart of every city are its people. What does it mean for a city to be inclusive, and how can we manage human interactions in an age of rising inequalities? How do we build a collective spirit between individuals, communities, social infrastructure providers and governance groups in our cities, and how do we encourage people to be engaged in the civic sphere? (3 of 3, RNZ)

5:00 The World at Five

A roundup of today's news and sport

5:11 Heart and Soul

Communism and the Meteoric Rise of Christianity in China

Every year millions of rural Chinese workers swarm into the new vast mega-cities that are growing seemingly unconstrained all over this vast country. As they settle and populate cities like Beijing and Shanghai, they are bringing their Christian faith with them, changing the social and religious landscape of the country, and challenging the moral authority of the Communist Party. In the second part of his journey exploring Christianity in China, Danny Vincent meets the people worshipping in the shadows, out of sight of the government who have decreed that practicing their faith is illegal. Danny asks whether the state is worried that Chinese Christians will shift their loyalty from the ideals of the Communist state to the word of God. (Episode 2 of 2, BBC)
