Edith Eger

Psychologist Edith (Edie) Eger is one of the few living Holocaust survivors. After a happy childhood in Hungary, the Nazis sent her family to Auschwitz in 1944 when she was 16. After decades struggling with survivor's guilt, Edie - who lives in California - now helps people overcome victimhood and rediscover the joy and self-love she says we are all born with. As a psychologist, she specialises in treating PTSD sufferers, and it was the realisation that she couldn't take people further than she had been herself that prompted her return to Auschwitz. (RNZ)

Rob Knight: When Grubby is Good

Is it okay if my kid eats soil? Can we use the five-second rule when food drops on the floor? Should I be carrying hand sanitiser? American-based New Zealander who is one of the world's leading experts on the microbiome says we shouldn't worry so much about dirt. Dr Rob Knight is co-author of the book Dirt is Good: The Advantage of Germs for Your Child's Developing Immune System (RNZ)
