Toby Leach and Nigel Collins perform a small towns worth of guys, girls and animals in this comedy, which also questions who owns our land and asks why can't locals control what happens to their own environment. (RNZ)

4:06 The Sunday Feature

Word Christchurch - Chessie Henry

The central event of Chessie Henry's insightful family memoir, 'We Can Make a Life', is the February 2011 Christchurch earthquake. Chessie's father Chris, a Kaikōura-based doctor, crawled into makeshift tunnels in the collapsed CTV building to rescue the living and look for the dead. In her book, Chessie interviews her father, considers the psychological cost of heroism and the meaning of home. Chessie and Chris Henry talk with Bronwyn Hayward in this highlight from the 2018 Christchurch Word Festival. (RNZ)
